Summer Institute 2009 e-News June 16, 2009

New addition to the program: a free session on the evening of July 6th (dinner included)

A three-hour session on The CAPTURE Project, including a working dinner, has been added to our program for the evening of July 6th, beginning at 5:30 p.m.

This session is available to all participants at no additional charge. However, in order to participate, it will be necessary to pre-register your place before June 26th, 2009.

This session will present The CAPTURE Project and will aim to gather your feedback about the program. The CAPTURE Project seeks to develop a platform for the collection, sharing and use of both qualitative and quantitative evidence from policies and practices in chronic disease prevention.

To consult a detailed description of this session on the Summer Institute website, click here.

To register, please fill out the registration form on our site and forward the completed form to Ms. Jasmine Sharma at thecaptureproject@videotron.ca. Spaces will be limited, so act now. Click here for the registration form.

A shuttle bus service has been organized for you.

In order to make your travel to and from the Summer Institute more convenient, green, and affordable, we have organized a shuttle bus service from Québec City's Jean Lesage Airport during peak arrival and departure times. Some shuttles will also make stops at Québec City's Palais train station in accordance with the train schedules. Shuttles will also be available for the free evening on Wednesday, July 8th.

A flat rate of $60 + taxes per person has been established for unlimited shuttle use. To use the shuttles, you must reserve your place by using the online registration before June 30th.

To consult the shuttle schedule and to book your place, click here for the Ground Transportation page on our website.

Thanks for having registered for the Summer Institute. We look forward to seeing you in July. If you have any questions or comments, please do not hesitate to contact us.
